

I try & try to think what this thing is, but never get any where - Today you gave me a feeling that there really is nothing I can do & so I am not too much to blame.

At dinner tonight I tried some mild & innocent communication, but met with nothing but rebuffs, so we sat in silence till Willie flung down his napkin & went up stairs before the meal was over. I am sure something

Dear Jim -

I took a lot of your time today, but I want you to know that you helped me ~~me~~. I also get very much upset by the atmosphere of antagonism in which I live, & I so often feel that probably the fault lies with me, & that I really ought to do something
